THIRD TERM IS PREDICTED FOR OFFICIAL CORPS

Election and Naming of 1929
Convention City on Closing Program

GRAND BALL TONIGHT

Event at Crystal Lake Park
Will Conclude Entertainment
of Visitors Here

Indications that the present set of officers would be given a third term
and that either Mansfield or Toledo
would be given the 1929 convention was an outstanding development in the state convention of the Knights of Columbus here today.

The convention, which opened Saturday with registration of delegates, will be concluded tonight with a grand ball at Crystal Lake Park Pavilion.
The convention sessions were held in Star Auditorium.

Mansfield and Toledo are the strong
contenders for the 1929 convention.
Although Cincinnati, Chillicothe and Columbus presented bids for the meeting. The first named two cities sent delegations to the convention in an effort to obtain 1929 sessions of the organization.

The convention in session here today
is regarded by state officers as the largest in the 20 years of Ohio Council, Marion Council, No. 671, is acting as host to the state organization.

Today's program opened with a high mass for departed members of the Knights of Columbus. Rev. T. A.
Nolan, pastor of Our Lady of Victory
Church, Columbus, and named temporary chaplain of the Ohio Council, celebrated the mass.

Father Nolan succeeds Rt. Rev. T.
C. O'Reilly, lately of Cleveland and recently named bishop of Scranton. Pa.
H. was unable to attend the convention here because of meeting of clergy
at Scranton today.

Selection of a 1929 convention city
and selection of officers will be made late today.

Today's business session opened with
W. E. Hans, of Delaware, state deputy, in the chair. Among the speakers was Dr. H. H. McCallan,
former superintendent of the Dayton
State Hospital for the insane and now retired today.

With Fred Melchior, the Junkens expert, at the controls, and Dr. C. G. Miller and Mercurio Thibault, accompanying him, the plane rose about 50 feet after a short dash down the runway built at Blaine Station and suddenly dropped to the ground.

Neither Melchior nor his companions were hurt, but the entire left side of the plane was badly damaged as it fell sideways. The reason for its sudden fall has not been ascertained.

Melchior reached the Bremen by dropping in a parachute from one of the army amphibious planes, which were to escort the German ship to New York. The ship and the mechanic have been working on the plane for some time.

BREMEN FLIERS SURPRISE
ALBANY WITH EARLY VISIT

Albany N. Y., May 21—The Bremen fliers caught Albany napping early today. They arrived unexpectedly from Boston shortly after 5 o'clock this morning in a railroad sleeping car.

The heroes of the transatlantic flight were expected here about noon.

BELIEVE 148
BODIES STILL TO BE FOUND

Weary Rescue Crews Dig Way
into Underground Death
Trap

GAS CAUSES BLAST

Only 14 Men Escape in Pennsylvania Disaster; One Dies
in Hospital

Marion, Pa., May 21—With 40
bodies removed from the Mather colliery
which was rocked by an explosion Saturday, weary rescue crews this afternoon dug their way deeper into the delirious mine in the hope of recovering the 148 bodies believed still to be in the workings.

Virtually all hope that any of the men will be found alive has been abandoned. Fourteen men were rescued from the mine, but one of these died
today in Waynesburg hospital, bringing the total known and believed dead to 148 men. Officials believe 211 men were in the mine when the explosion, apparently caused by gas, shook the mine.

The work of opening up the mine
since the blast, more than a mile and a half from the shaft,
will probably take another day, officials
directing the rescue work said.

The rescue crews are digging through each room in each of the mines between
Nos. 15 and 25, in which the bodies
are believed to be buried.

Stated, hopes dimmed
Any faint hope that any of the miners would be found alive in the mine was dispelled by the condition of the bodies removed today. They were burned almost beyond recognition.

One short word today sealed the fate
of 194 men trapped in the mine.
While rescue teams from all parts of western Pennsylvania worked frantically to reach the miners in the orphan hope that some of them may have been able to brattle themselves in from the working face of the mine and so escape
the deadly gas, the grim veterans of the cave and federal aid company "Beals"
like saw no hope for the entombed
men, dead, gas—"black damp"—
which swept the workings in the wake of the terrific explosion, was feared to have taken its toll.

Meanwhile, in the mine-covered recreation hall of this model mining village lay 45 mangled bodies, five of the 211 victims to be taken from the blast struck mine.

Fourteen other men escaped death—
eight of whom are in Waynesburg and Brownsville hospitals.

Crews are digging around on debris-clotted working face of the mine in the hope that if the rescue crews can get to the spot where the fall force of the blast struck they may find men trapped away in corner rooms which could have checked the spread of the gas.

Experts who hurried here at first news of the explosion however, have abandoned hope, because of the way in which the explosion occurred.

CONVICTS WALK AWAY
John, Ill., May 21—Three honor
farm convicts at the Stateville Prison, near here, were still "A. W. O. L." today after going out yesterday morning
to "milk the cows." Another prisoner, disgraced over not having milk for his breakfast, went to the barns and discovered the men were missing. They are Alvin Hoffman, Paul Kiewowski and Jack Forth. Searching parties have been put on their trail.

STATE OFFICERS AT K. OF C. MEETING

225 ATTEND
DISTRICT MEET
AT BUCYRUS

Marion and Other Cities Represented at Moose Cathering

(Special to The Star)

Bucyrus, May 21—About 225 members of the Loyal Order of Moose from Mansfield, Gallon, Ashland, Columbus,
Delaware, Marion, Kenton, Lima,
Findlay, Fostoria, Canton, Willard, Mt.
Vernon and Carey, were entertained
with a dinner and program by Bucyrus
Lodge, No. 670 at the Moose hall yesterday.

At the afternoon session candidates for the Legion Degree were initiated by Mansfield lodge.

At 6 o'clock Women of Mooseheart
Lodge served about 300 guests at dinner at the Moose hall. Wilbur Nigh, a member of the organization and his orchestra, furnished music during the dinner. Following the dinner the program was opened with two vocal solos
by Corwin L. Lettley.

A playlet was presented by the men
and women of the Mooseheart Lodge entitled "Dr. Overcharge." The cast follows: Dr. Overcharge, Eugene Shaw, assisted by nurse, Mrs. Guy Hahn
and Mrs. William Adams; the "Vic-time," Mrs. E. Judd, Mr. Arden Wis-
man, William Nigh, Mrs. Nigh, W. C.
Gibson, Mrs. Andrew Reed, and Mrs.
Degray.

Following the playlet a vocal solo
was given by Mr. Lettley. Two symphonies were played by Edwin Nor-

ROAD SURFACE WORK
TO START NEXT WEEK

County Surveyor Announces
Plans for Treating 43 Miles
of Highway

Surface treatment of Marion County improved roads is expected to start a week from today, according to County Surveyor Cecil R. Leavens. Forty-
three miles of roadway are to be surface treated with tar and asphalt.

The work is to be done by Louis Dehmer Lema, who was awarded the contract by the Board of County Commissioners several weeks ago. The work is to be completed by Aug. 15.

Roads in the vicinity of Wells will be the first to get their coat of tar.
With the completion of these the repair
work will move to Prospect, then to Moral and then to Green Camp.

KILLED ON FARM
Batavia, May 20—G. H. Harlow, 47, prominent farmer of near Williamsburg, is dead today, his body having been found lying in a field near his home Saturday afternoon. Authorities expressed the belief that his team
which he was using to draw a harrow
had run away with him and he had been thrown under the steel spikes of the farm implement.

There are some names of the state officers of the Ohio Council, Knights of Columbus, attending the convention here tonight. (Upper row shows, left to right, Edward T. Gorman of Cincinnati, state secretary; H. T. McNeil of Middletown, state treasurer; P. J. McNeil of London, past state deputy, and W. E. Sloan of Delaware, state deputy. Lower row shows, left, T. J.
Duffy, of Columbus, supreme director of the Knights of Columbus, and right,
L. A. Aze of Marion, district deputy and general chairman of the Marion Council committee on convention arrangements.

"Tin Can Parade" and Free Movie Planned as Climax
of Cleanup Week Here

All Boys and Girls Under 14 Years of Age Eligible To Take Part in Event Next Saturday; Six Tin Cans Only Requirement To March and See Show at Theater

YOU'VE heard of the "Tin Can Parade," haven't you?
Well, here's a new one. It's the "Tin
Can Parade" and through the Tin Can Parade Junior Marion is going to help make our city spick and span. Junior Marion is going to do its part to make Cleanup Week the biggest success it has ever been.

All right, boys and girls, if you are under 14 years of age you will want to take the "lowdown" on this Tin Can Parade.

The Marion Star and the Marion
Theater are going to stage the Tin Can Parade next Saturday morning and it is going to start promptly at 9:30 o'clock in front of The Star office and wind up with a big free movie show
at the Marion Theater.

How's that sound?
Good!
What's that got to do with Cleanup Week?
Well, here's the explanation to this riddle.

You probably noticed a lot of old tin cans around your neighborhood. They have accumulated with the winter months.
And The Star and the Marion Theater
want to see our city clean as a new pin
for the summer season. That's the reason for the Tin Can Parade.

To get in the Tin Can Parade you must bring along six old tin cans. We don't care how you bring them. You may tie them to a string, put them in a basket, wrap them up or carry them under your arm. We don't care. Just so you bring six tin cans next Saturday morning.

C. B. RAYBURN
IS REAPPOINTED
SCHOOL HEAD

Retained for Three-Year Term
by County Board of Education

Re-election of C. B. Rayburn as superintendent of the Marion county schools for a period of three years was announced at the county school office in the lecture hall on W. Center at this morning. Mr. Rayburn's re-election was announced by the county board of education.

First Named in 1923
Rayburn's ability was recognized by the county board while he was serving as superintendent of the centralized school at Green Camp in 1923 when he was selected to fill the unexpired term of County Superintendent W. H.
Hestland, who resigned to accept a position in the state department of education.

In 1925, at the expiration of the term of the former superintendent, Mr.
Rayburn was elected for a period of three years, the longest period for which
a county superintendent is employed.

BOARDS OF THREE
COUNTIES TO MEET

Pletcher Ditch Hearing on Program at Session in Bucyrus Tuesday

Hearing on the branch to the Pletcher ditch in Marion, Crawford and Marion Counties will be held in Bucyrus beginning at 10 o'clock Tuesday,
according to announcement today at the office of the Marion County Board of Commissioners. Commissioners of the three counties will be present.

The branch, petitioned for by Elmer
Ireland in Marion and Marion Counties. The three Boards of Commissioners viewed the branch on May 17. The commissioners will determine Tuesday whether or not the branch will be allowed.

The ditch proper is practically five miles in length. According to pre-posed plans it will drain into the middle fork of the Whetstone River. The branch is approximately three-fourths of a mile in length.

At 1 o'clock Tuesday the Board of Commissioners of Marion County is scheduled to open bids on the three-mile branch.

At 2:30 o'clock Friday night the commissioners, together with Cecil R.
Leavens, county surveyor, will meet with the Board of Trustees of Clarion Township for a hearing on the captain's estimates of three new roads to that township.

THREE BURNED

Fire Swept Through the Woods, Took the Barns

New Albany, Ind., May 21—Three daughters of J. S. Owens, owner of the New Albany Cannery, were burned to death early today while Mr. and Mrs.
Owens were away from their home
as they were en route by bus to the Kilbuck farm, 18 miles from the victims were to have been conducted from Albany High School next week. New casters, Blain, 28, and Helen, 28, also perished in the flames. The three bodies were recovered.

COUNTY OFFICE
PROBLEM TAKEN

Commissioners To Declare Recordership Vacant, Is

SMITH STILL MISSING

Plan of Procedure Discussed at Executive Session Held
Today

RELATIVES
An executive session of the Board of County Commissioners
held to work out a method of filling the office of Charles E. Smith, missing county recorder, was resumed at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon without any action being taken.

Due to legal complications involved in the case the commissioners decided to obtain an opinion relative to the procedure
from Attorney General Edward C. Turner.

The move to fill the office will be delayed until Wednesday or Thursday it is said.

The Marion County Board of Commissioners was in executive session this afternoon to consider methods of replacing County Recorder Charles E.
Smith, who disappeared three weeks ago yesterday.

Meeting with the commissioners were
T. W. Jones, who is in charge of the investigation of Smith's records, County Prosecutor Frank Wiedemann and County Auditor Earl E. Thomas.

Although the commissioners had no
statement to make concerning their probable action at the meeting it was thought that they, together with the prosecuting attorney, will declare the office vacant and appoint a successor to the missing recorder. Approximately a dozen applications for the post have been submitted to the commissioners.

A legal question is involved in the move to fill the office of recorder, in that Smith's term does not expire until Jan. 1, 1931. Whether the appointee is to serve until Smith's term would have expired or until Jan. 1, 1929 is the question bothering the commissioners.

According to Prosecuting Attorney Wiedemann, the statute governing the office states that the appointee is to serve until "his successor is duly elected and qualified."

Ordinarily there would have been an election for the recorder's office this fall. The statute, it is pointed out,
does not state whether, in case of a vacancy, a new official is to be elected at the next general election or not until the general election immediately
preceding the expiration of the regular term.

Smith has been gone from his office since April 24. No word has been received from him. His mysterious disappearance the work of the office
has been carried on by E. M. Bell, Smith's deputy.

NO PROGRAM PLANNED
FOR WEEK IN MARION

"Know Ohio" Event To Receive Little Attention, Is Indication

There will be little public observance of "Know Ohio Week," proclaimed by Gov. A. C. Diehl for this week, in Marion if the results of a survey of civic organizations today can be taken as an indication.

The Marion Real Estate Board at a meeting to be held Tuesday night at the Hotel Harding, will hear a paper read by R. T. Lewis. The paper will contain a number of pertinent facts concerning the state.

Mayor Carl M. Hosen did not formally proclaim "Know Ohio Week."
However, he asked Marion citizens to make some observance of the week in a statement issued recently.

The purpose of the week as outlined by leaders of state civic and industrial leaders is to urge citizens to "know Ohio first." The slogan appearing "Know Ohio Week" is headed by Dr. William O'Leary Thompson,
president emeritus of Ohio State University.

Italian Selections on

TENOR SOLOIST TO SING

Radio Program Tuesday

A program of light Italian numbers will be presented by Giuseppe di Bonaiuto, tenor, and a Venetian ensemble, during the "Orchestra That Differ" hour to be broadcast Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock over the blue network stations.

The numbers presented are particularly suited to the small string instruments, such as the mandolin and guitar, of the Italian countryside. The soloist will sing a group of songs including di Capua's "A Serenata de Rose," "Papale e Surriento," by Tagliarini and Gambardella's "Serenata de Maremare."

A group of old song favorites will be featured during the Stromberg-Carlson broadcast over the blue network Tuesday night at 7 o'clock.

The male quartet will open the program with "Treasure Chest of Memories," "Believe Me, It All Thinks Enormous," "Young Charm," "Kingdom Come" and "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes." This song group will be followed by a vibrational solo, "On the Banks of the Wabash," played by Keith McLeod. A violin solo, "Smiling Through," and two numbers by the quartet will conclude the program. Only selections of time-tested merit.

Chicago Husband Appears in Court to Beg Permission to Woo His Wife

CHICAGO, May 21—A Chicago husband was today in court today to ask legal permission to woo his wife.

This unusual predicament is the lot of Mr. James Barrett Johnson, a commercial artist. He is indignant over an injunction obtained by Mrs. Johnson restraining him from sending her candy and flowers.

"It's an outrage," wailed Mr. Johnson. "Any other man who wants to send his wife candy or roses seeks a confectioner or a florist. I have to see a lawyer."

Attorney Otto Beer today will go before Judge Joseph Sabath and ask that the "ridiculous" injunction be dissolved. He asked the indignation of his client.

"Imagine a man going to jail for sending candy and flowers to his own wife!" he said.

But to Mrs. Johnson, the wife, the injunction wasn't so "ridiculous." She is suing her artist husband for divorce and believes she should not accept his gifts. His persistent wooing, she said, made the injunction necessary.

Escapade of Chicago Heiress Startles Sahara!

Pretty American Journalist
chooses Foreign Legion Hero
in sensational Sahara romance

SHEIKS are passé, in the opinion of pretty Mary Vanbrugh, wealthy Chicago girl journalist, who arrived last week from Algiers accompanied by her fiancé, Major De Beaujolais of the French Army. According to Miss Vanbrugh, the gallant and ardent officers of French Foreign Legion are far better lovers than the famous desert sheiks, and certainly make more ideal husbands.

Miss Vanbrugh's desert romance, which reads like a story out of a book, began when she met De Beaujolais, then on a secret mission for France, at a Sahara fort while on a tour. A sudden and savage rebellion of the Touraegs, "The Wolves of the Desert," overwhelmed the fort and Miss Vanbrugh fled with De Beaujolais into the desert.

After much hardship and danger they reached the Great Oasis, where De Beaujolais sought to enlist the aid of the powerful Sheik El-Hamel for France. At first the Sheik refused to ally himself with France unless Miss Vanbrugh was turned over to him. But, finally De Beaujolais won him over, and the Touraegs were beaten in a desperate desert battle by sensational strategy.

See Evelyn Brent as courageous Mary Vanbrugh, handsome Gary Cooper as the gallant De Beaujolais, Noah Beery as the four-flushing El-Hamel, William Powell as Becque, renegade rebel leader, in Paramount's sensational picture from Major P. C. Wren's great novel.

Escapade of Chicago Heiress Startles Sahara!

Pretty American Journalist chooses Foreign Legion Hero in sensational Sahara romance

SHEIKS are passé, in the opinion of pretty Mary Vanbrugh, wealthy Chicago girl journalist, who arrived last week from Algiers accompanied by her fiancé, Major De Beaujolais of the French Army. According to Miss Vanbrugh, the gallant and ardent officers of French Foreign Legion are far better lovers than the famous desert sheiks, and certainly make more ideal husbands.

Miss Vanbrugh's desert romance, which reads like a story out of a book, began when she met De Beaujolais, then on a secret mission for France, at a Sahara fort while on a tour. A sudden and savage rebellion of the Touraregs, "The Wolves of the Desert," overwhelmed the fort and Miss Vanbrugh fled with De Beaujolais into the desert.

After much hardship and danger they reached the Great Oasis, where De Beaujolais sought to enlist the aid of the powerful Sheik El-Hamel for France. At first the Sheik refused to ally himself with France unless Miss Vanbrugh was turned over to him. But, finally De Beaujolais won him over, and the Touraregs were beaten in a desperate desert battle by sensational strategy.

See Evelyn Brent as courageous Mary Vanbrugh, handsome Gary Cooper as the gallant De Beaujolais, Noah Beery as the four-flushing El-Hamel, William Powell as Becque, renegade rebel leader, in Paramount's sensational picture from Major P. C. Wren's great novel.

Late Rally Gives Marion Victory Over Elyria Nine, 6-4

LOCALS BUNCH BLOWS TO TAKE HOME GAME

Hits in Lucky Seventh Sends Bill Rose To Showers; Winners Hold Scoreless Until Last Two Innings

KARL E. McELROY, Editor, The Star

Having tossed away the first seven innings, the Elyria bidders staged a fighting comeback to defeat the Marion bidders 6-4.

Bill Rose, who has been showing but little stuff in the three games he pitched on the mound, was taken from the game in the seventh after 11 batters had been pitched.

Marion made four errors in the last three innings but settled down to win the game.

Donalson, new addition to this team, played his first game by striking out twice and getting a single in four times at bat. He made one error out of six chances at second.

Next Sunday the old team will be back again at Lincoln Park. The Eagles will play the Old Boys of Toledo in the fourth game of the season.

Old Lucky Seventh came up and the Elyria sluggers layed on to the Marion pitchers. The game started off with a bang. Marion pitched out to the Elyria bidders by pitching out a double to the bases. Sharrock, who had been hitting the ball, completed the home run.

Some timing completely upset Marion. The local nine and the Elyria bidders stayed the next inning on. It was just too bad for Marion as the Marion guys still could not throw out long drives.

The eighth found the first two batters on being easily retired. Marion again started things going by pitching out a double, scoring three batters out to center.

Marion again started his stuff by pitching out to right field, putting Marion in the plate.

"COCKY JOE" PLANS TO SET NEW RECORD

Ray Clips 13 Minutes off Marks in Long Beach Marathon

New York, May 21—Joe Ray, the Cocky Chicagoan who won the New York to Long Beach Marathon in two hours and 25 minutes. The Olympic record is 2:02:25.45, made by Hannes Kolehmainen in 1920.

"Cocky Joe" was out tonight for a rest before beginning intensive training. He plans to take 10 and 15-mile workouts in preparation for the big race at Amsterdam on Aug. 6. He will participate in a 10-mile road race at Bedford, Mass., on June 16, in the 10,000 meter Olympic sectional try-out in Chicago on June 30 and in the 10,000 meter final Olympic try-out at the Harvard Stadium in Cambridge, Mass., on July 7.

Ray and Clarence De Mar, who finished seventh in Saturday's race, are the outstanding candidates for Olympic marathon berths.

TO OPEN SEASON

The Masonic League recreation ball season in Marion will open in Marion Wednesday night when the local team plays Upper Sandusky at Lincoln Park. The contest is called for 8:15 o'clock.

Next Sunday the old team will be back again at Lincoln Park. The Eagles will play the Old Boys of Toledo in the fourth game of the season.

Fourth Edition of Fight on Tap Tonight

EXPECT DELAYS TO CUT SPEED OF BOTH SAMMY AND JIMMY

"Fair and Warmer" is Weatherman's Forecast for Fight

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, May 21—Mr. Funnegan's favorite off-and-on motto will have to go for a trip to the job printer for a fourth edition. If Sammy Mandell, champion, and Jimmy McLarnin, challenger, again are unable to have a fight for the lightweight championship of the world at the Polo Grounds tonight, the matter for the dramatic to the atmosphere and, if the weather doesn't abandon its buffoonery by tonight, the folks will begin asking why they had to bring this business up in the first place.

Fair and warmer was the weather bureau's forecast for tonight, the outlook probably being predicted on the notion that even a weather prophet can't be wrong all the time.

The continued postponements like-

was affected "form" on the bout to the extent that no one knows just how the principals are laughing off the exigencies of daily prep work for an altercation that only threatens to take place. Accordingly, a 10-dollar word charge of the situation, for Mandell and McLarnin made the required 135

INDIANS ONLY CLUB TO GET EVEN BREAK

Seven Major League Teams Home After Disastrous Trip on Road; Braves Stop Cub's Winning Streak

New York, May 21—Seven major league teams which have just finished a disastrous road trip cheered their no place like home" with relief today as they returned to their own neck of the woods. Cleveland was the only visiting team in either league to get better than an even break.

The Cubs jumped to first place during their home stay by winning 13 straight games before losing to Boston yesterday. The Cardinals had the next best record in the National League, winning 10 of 16. The Giants, who left New York in first place, took only seven out of 15 and dropped into the third slot. The Phillies copped only one of 13 games.

The Yankees set the pace in the American League, capturing all of their 13 contests except one game with Cleveland. The Athletics grabbed four out of 13 and the Red Sox suffered but four setbacks in 12 starts. The St. Louis Browns lost 10 of their 12 clashes.

What happens when an irresistible force meets an immovable body will be demonstrated today when the Yankees take on the Red Sox in a doubleheader. The Yankees have won eight straight and the Red Sox have copped six in a row.

Yesterday the Huggins swamped the Browns, 9 to 3. George Pigeon, the league's leading pitcher, turned in his seventh victory in as many starts.

The Cubs couldn't get past the home mark of 13 straight and were stymied by the Braves, 4 to 3.

Reds Near Top

Cincinnati advanced to within one game of the Cubs by nailing out Pittsburgh, 3 to 2. An Allen hit in the ninth. Lucas and Glines did the hitting.

McArdle started his first game for the Giants in the nightcap of a double bill with St. Louis and lost, 1 to 1. The New Yorkers got only four hits, including a homer by Roush, off Sylvester Johnson. The Giants took the upper 5 to 3.

Linquette hit his seventh homer, making him one up on Jack Wilson in the National League home run sweepstakes, as Brooklyn outslugged the Phillies, 11 to 4.

Cleveland shamed Washington, 6 to 3, sweeping the series. Van Gilder of the Tigers captured a 3 to 1 pitching duel from Ted Lyons of the White Sox, driving in the winning run himself in the ninth after Ted Fothergill had tied the score with a homer.

However, it is a melancholy fact that the gate receipts apparently are not to be what the managers, George Rickard, had been led to expect. Usually you lead the marquee like you lead in a hitting post but, anyhow, he looked for a gate of more than a quarter of a million dollars and he seems to be finding very little, except difficulty. The out of town trade supply has been reduced to a trickle until such time as the flood goes back to Johnston.

Externally, the form chart on the match remains, as was, Mandell being pegged as the fastest hitter and boxer and McLarnin the harder hitter and fighter. However, the uncertainty as to just which man, if either, is to keep his form over the period of inaction has altered the accepted facts in some extent. They now are, in fact, not in the Shipwreck Kelly and Donaghy's club, i. e., up in the air.

REIGN COUNT WINNER OF KENTUCKY DERBY

Misses and Toro Finish Second and Third; Race in Mud

Lexington, Ky., May 21—Racing against the largest and perhaps the most mediocre derby field in history, Reign Count won Kentucky's great classic Saturday afternoon.

Shins and Toro from the heavy downpour of rain during the morning gave the great track at Churchill Downs the appearance of an old country mud road. Track conditions made the race exceptionally slow with the winner chalking up at time of 2:10 2-5.

Misses finished second trailing the winner by three lengths. Toro took third place.

Selling Pressure Forces Rail and Industrial Stocks Down

LIQUIDATION CAUSES DROP

Market Faces Severe Test Following Tightening of Speculative Credit

By W. S. COLSINS
Financial Editor

NEW YORK, May 21.—With few exceptions, the stock market today was under a severe test. The selling pressure which was so marked in the liquidation of the railroads, was now being applied to the industrial stocks. The market was under a severe test, and the selling pressure was so marked in the liquidation of the railroads, was now being applied to the industrial stocks.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Markets were quiet here today, with prices changed little from last week. Specials that featured the market Saturday were being quoted at regular prices today. Supplies of practically all kinds of seasonal fruits and vegetables were plentiful. New potatoes continue to be offered in quantity. Dealers today were offering good quality stock at five pounds for 25 cents. Old potatoes are becoming less desirable, although the price paid at 35 cents a bushel.

New cabbage is scarce. Dealers were carrying a small supply that was selling at 15 cents a pound, the peak price of the season. Leaf vegetables continued plentiful, with the exception of leaf lettuce, which is selling at 20 cents. Spinach is finding a ready sale at two pounds for 25 cents. Onions are also selling at two pounds for 25 cents. Cucumbers are holding at 15 cents with a limited supply. Peas are plentiful and dealers report a ready sale at 20 cents. Green beans continue to be fairly plentiful and are selling at 25 cents a pound.

Cantaloupes are becoming more plentiful. Larger supplies are being offered today, selling at 20 and 25 cents a pound, a drop of two weeks ago. Strawberries continue to be sold at 25 cents. Good quality berries could be bought today for 25 cents. Larger and more select varieties, however, were selling at 30 cents. Home-grown berries are expected to appear on the market within the next few weeks. Pineapples continue to sell at 20 and 30 cents. A further drop is looked for before the end of the week. Oranges are holding at from 25 to 30 cents and lemons are selling at 20 cents.

TWO STOLEN AUTOS REPORTED TO POLICE

Chevrolet Owners Request Aid of Department in Locating Missing Cars

Two Chevrolet cars were stolen Sunday, according to reports made to local police by the owners. Samuel Farnegie, 444 W. Center, reported Sunday morning that his Chevrolet sedan has been stolen from in front of St. Mary's church on N. Main, while he was attending service. The car was described as being a 1928 model and carrying an Ohio license A32-707.

At 11:35 o'clock last night W. B. Her, 424 N. Greenwood, called at police headquarters to report the theft of his Chevrolet coupe from N. State near the postoffice. The car was a 1925 model and carried Ohio license A31-658.

If a fat man is anxious to lose flesh all he has to do is shave himself.

The Marion County Board of Education, at a meeting held Monday afternoon, re-elected Mr. Rayburn as county school superintendent for a three-year term. The appointment came in recognition of his efficient service in the same position during the last five years.

DELIVERS SERMON

Presbyterian Pastor Preaches at LaRue Baccalaureate Service

Lafayette, May 21—Rev. R. L. Reynolds, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon last night in the school auditorium. The invocation was spoken by Rev. J. T. Carter, pastor of the Methodist church, and music for the evening was contributed by a double quartet composed of Mrs. F. L. Tophill, Mrs. Carl Kniffin, Mrs. J. C. Thuma, Miss Mildred Spain, A. T. Mills, Elmore Miller, Charles Rogers and W. F. Kniff.

The auditorium was decorated in the senior class colors of scarlet and gray. The annual commencement exercises will be held Thursday night.

In telling a story, it is reasonably certain that one's experiences are only as good as the interest to others as they are to him.

SEEK BANDITS WHO KIDNAPED VICTIM

Pair Throw Man from Car After Taking Watch and Money

Cincinnati, May 21—A police dragnet was set today in an effort to apprehend two bandits who held up two men, kidnaped one of them and forced him to accompany them on a wild, 70-mile run last night through the night near here last night. During the chase the bandits engaged in a pistol duel with a motorcycle policeman who sought to arrest them for speeding. He collected their car of $750 and his watch and then traced him out of the car, admonishing him to "walk back to town."

The holdup victims were Peter C. Miller and John Meyer, both of this city. They were parked in Miller's car when the bandits approached. Miller leaped from the car and escaped. The holdup men using his car to take Meyer into the suburbs and rob him. The abandoned car was found later with the connecting rods turned out.

CITY BRIEFS

Firemen Called Out—Fire apparatus from the city's three stations responded to a call sent in by residents of Quarry shortly after 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon when a pile of boards in the yard of the Ohio Hide & Tallow Co. plant was discovered on fire. It is thought the boards, which had been piled along a fence near the railroad tracks, had been set afire by sparks from a passing engine. The fire was put out with water from the booster tank on the No. 2 pumper.

Undergoes Operation—C. F. Reichardt of Agosta underwent an operation for appendicitis yesterday at City Hospital, where he was removed in the W. C. Boyd invalid car.

Pastor H. Rev. James Dolin, pastor of the Bennett Street Nazarene Mission, conducted services yesterday at First Church of Nazarene in the absence of the pastor, Rev. G. E. Wadley, who is ill of bronchitis at his home, 108 Clover.

Given School Sermon—Rev. Newman Riemer, local licensed preacher, conducted the service last night at Wesley M. E. Church. Rev. George Whitlock, pastor of the church, was in Green Canyon, where he gave the baccalaureate sermon for Green Camp School graduates at the M. E. Church there. His subject was "Faith and By-Paths."

Receives Treatment—Mrs. William Black was removed to the office of Dr. A. A. Starnes, W. Center, and to her home, 262 Barnhart, Saturday afternoon in the Hess, Markon & Aye invalid coach. Mrs. Black underwent a ray treatment at Dr. Starnes' office.

Cars in Crash—Two automobiles driven by Marion persons were badly damaged when they locked fenders in front of the Harding Memorial about midnight last night. None of the occupants were injured. A Nash four-door sedan, owned by Nitram, of Portland, and a Hupmobile, owned by George Wagner, of Muncie, figured in the crash.

Program of Service—Young people of First United Brethren Church presented an appropriate program honoring "Father," during the Sunday School hour there yesterday morning as a part of the day's observance of "Father's Day."

Tribute to Booth—William Booth and the Salvation Army was the subject of the sermon preached by Dr. F. S. Davis, pastor, at a well-attended "Salvation Army Night" service last night at Trinity Baptist Church. The pastor reviewed the life of the great Salvation Army worker and showed steps in the development of that organization, dwelling particularly on the workmen's farms developed by Mr. Booth in Australia, South Africa and Canada.

Program of Service—Rev. Paul Andrew Hemple, Chicago Spiritualist, will give healing demonstrations and readings Tuesday afternoon and messages Tuesday night at the J. H. Bonham home, 130 1/2 N. Main.

Permits for Garages—Building permits for two garages were issued by City Clerk Keller, Saturday afternoon, to H. H. Shickler, 221 W. Wood, for a garage to cost $170 and Charles W. Fissell, 556 Olney, for a garage to cost $25.

LOCAL STUDENTS ON O. S. U. COMMITTEES

Will Assist in Directing Biennial Engineering College Program

Two Marion students at O. S. U. will serve on committees named to have charge of arrangements for "Engineer's Day," the biennial jubilee of the College of Engineering at the University. Charles M. Schoenlaub, son Mr. and Mrs. David Schoenlaub of S. Prospect, Marion, is a member of the committee for "Tradition's Day," which will be held in connection with the observance of the engineering college. Donald T. Johnston, also of Marion, has been named chairman of the general program committee for "Engineer's Day." Clarence C. Beacham, of Chesterville, near Mt. Gilboa, is a member of the social committee.

"Engineer's Day" this year will be held May 25. All students in the College of Engineering will be excused from classes for the day to give them an opportunity to take part in the celebration and view the work displayed by various members of the department.

Schoenlaub is a senior in the college and will graduate next month. Johnston and Beacham are juniors.

11 VESSELS DAMAGED AS FOG COVERS SEA

No Lives Lost in Series of Collisions Along Atlantic Seaboard

New York, May 21—The fog which hung over New York harbor and the Atlantic seaboard for 48 hours, causing five collisions among ten vessels, had cleared today and conditions were again almost normal. Insurance officials estimated that the cost of repairs and damage to the ships would approximate $2,000,000.

No lives were lost, and no one was seriously injured although passengers on several of the vessels were much inconvenienced. There were only three passengers aboard the three vessels chiefly affected—the Pennland, The Vendam and The Mohawk.

The most dramatic experiences befell the 85 passengers on the Clyde liner Mohawk. The ship was hit in the fog Saturday afternoon by the Jefferson of the Old Dominion Line and was driven on Normandy Bar off Seabright, N. J., for a time the Mohawk was believed to be in a sinking condition and an S. O. S. was sent out. The passengers were brought to New York by the Coast Guard cutter Seminole. Captain John W. MacKenzie and his crew of 120 refused to leave the ship which is expected to be floated today when the tide floods.

Other ships struck in the fog beside the Mohawk, Jefferson, Pennland and Vendam, included the Annapolis City, Porto Rico, Minneapolis, La Maree, the schooner James W. Hall and tug Admiral Moran.

True Patriotism Inspired by Catholic Church, K of C Chaplain Says in Sermon

Rev. Thomas A. Nolan, Columbus, Speaks at Solemn Requiem High Mass Held Here for Deceased Members of Order; Service Opens Today's Convention Program

Declaring that the Catholic Church is the inspiration of enlightened citizenship and that she inculcates true love of country and true patriotism, Rev. Thomas A. Nolan, pastor of Our Lady of Victory Church, Columbus, and temporary chaplain of the Ohio Knights of Columbus, preached the sermon at the high mass for departed K. of C. members at St. Mary's Church here this morning.

Reverend Nolan's sermon follows, in part:

"Be ye zealous for the laws, and give your lives for the Covenant of your fathers."

"These words, which I have just addressed to you, are taken from the advice of a great chief in Israel to his sturdy sons, who had conquered in battle the unbelieving Antiochus, who would have abolished, if he were able, the law and religion of God.

"The struggle between godliness and ungodliness, righteousness and unrighteousness, truth and error, belief and unbelief, is as old as the world itself. The tide of conflict now ebbs, now flows, century after century in restless movement, as one army or the other for a time gains the ascendancy. The battleground where fight the heroes of heaven and hell, shifts from field to field—from the pastures of Media to the parliament of Europe, to the universities of the world, to the economic endeavors of the present day. The weapons vary from the crude sword and shield of the primitive warrior to the subtle reasoning of the Mediaeval Scholastic. And the heroes of God stand out in varied array from the hairy herdman of the Asiatic highlands to the cultured scholar of Western Europe; and from the steel clad Crusader of France to the humble missionary, who first carried the cross of redemption to the naked Indian of Western America.

Lawman of Freedom

"This is particularly an age where the Catholic layman stands in the forefront of the fray. The lay Apostolate today in a hundred channels of religious, social and economic activity is given opportunity to do great deeds for Christ—deeds which the heroic Crusaders of old, at far greater personal sacrifice, were not given to accomplish. God's message of peace and love and happiness to mankind in your message to carry as well as the churchman's. Christ's gospel of religious belief and moral practice is yours to spread as well as the churchman's priest's. Your bearing, as well as theirs, should thrill at the glories and triumphs of the Church, for in the Church of Christ you are of the world and the web.

"Your church, from the day of her foundation down through the ages, has carried in her sacred hands a threefold message—one has carried a message to the individual soul, a message to the home, a message to society at large.

"The Catholic Church is the inspiration of enlightened, conscientious citizenship. She inculcates true love of country, true patriotism. No one will contend that the Catholics of these United States have ever been found wanting to the cause of the Republic at critical periods of our nation's life, or that they have ever espoused principles subversive of democratic institutions. Indeed, the Catholic Church thrives and flourishes in the genial atmosphere of free America, as a bay tree beside the running waters. Her divine constitution makes her the church of the people in the most exacting meaning of the term, for there is no trust, which she is wont to confide to human keeping, no honor, which it is hers to bestow, which may not be merited and possessed by the most humble of her children, if he be a man of intimate worth.

Defender of Home

"And what the church does for the individual she does for the home. Your church has ever been the defender of the sanctity of the home. The home, she says, takes its rise in the marriage contract. And the conditions, under which the contract is entered into, will inevitably shape the character of family life. Good homes are the home and the heart of the country. Children, who grow to manhood under the influence of good homes, will be good citizens. A good tree will bear good fruit. But a bad home is the nursery of bad men, who become a menace to the peace and happiness of their fellow-beings.

"Society—intimately connected with the influence of the church in the home is her influence on society, for the home is the unit of society. We, my men, are not of the number who think that multiplied comforts and increased wealth are the ultimate measure of a nation's greatness. Nor is it our conviction that the life of a people can be made healthy and happy by things which can be bought or built. The testimony of history may be less obvious regarding other human affairs, but its pages speak unflatteringly when we seek therein the sources of a nation's well-being. The experience of the past confirms this verdict, that no people can possess the treasures of happiness and contentment where the thoughts, words and deeds of men are dominated by man's lower instincts.

Essential to Happiness

"Men must be good before they can be happy. Bad morals blight with a withering chill the wisest and strongest of men, and the splendid endowments, which should be the foundation and bulwark of a national and profitable existence, become weak and crumble under the corrupting influence of vicious habits.

"Such are the principles which the Catholic Church inculcates, regard to the individual, to the home, and to society in general. But these principles, good in themselves, would be fruitless unless they are instilled into the hearts and minds of the people. Hence it is that the church maintains her own system of education, which your organization has helped so notably to extend.

"There is today no portion of the church's work which we can view with greater satisfaction than her splendid achievements in the cause of Christian education. Though her attitude toward the world outside her own fold, we are rejoiced today to witness the growing triumphs of those principles, which the church has championed with unwavering firmness.

"The truth is that many of the best non-Catholic educators in our country have come to admit the necessity of religious training in the education of the young. They have found by long and costly experience that high-principled manhood and womanhood can not be built on the dry husks of secular training. Mental training has its place in the sphere of life, but also has its limitations. The arts and sciences may inform and perfect the mind, but they are well-nigh helpless in restraining the passions and leading the heart of man to the love of duty and virtue.

Good the Ground-Work

"God is the ground-work of Catholic education. Love of Him and the sense of personal responsibility to Him—these are the primary elements of true education—elements which react in a fruitful way upon all the forces of mind and heart, leading, as it were, the whole man and bringing out in all the fullness of its perfection the divine likeness, which the Creator has impressed upon the human soul.

"These, then, are some of the doctrines of your ancient and holy faith. It was fundamentally to foster and disseminate these imperishable principles that your great order was founded; and your most serious work now and at all future time will be in defense and spread of Catholic truth and Catholic ideals. As I said before, this is peculiarly the age of the Lay Apostolate. In the devoting paths of life, the layman has a far wider field of endeavor than has the priest. It would be a sad indictment, indeed, to admit that the Catholic layman is so blinded by indifference or so weakened by lethargy as to lose so noble an opportunity to work for God. Thank God! it is not so. The field of conflict is widening, but the army of Christ's warriors is daily adding new strength. In that vast array you Catholic Knights of Columbus, as picked men, must stand out, proud of the arms you bear, as were the crusading Knights of old, conscious of the holiness of your cause, giving your services nobly for God and for Country, for the home and for your fellow-men.

Final Events of Pleasant Township School Year Are on Program For This Week

Commencement Exercises To Follow All-Day Community Gathering, Friday; Junior-Senior Banquet Wednesday Night To Start Schedule of Festivities

Four important events are on the program of school and community activities in Pleasant Township this week, beginning with the Junior-Senior banquet Wednesday night and closing with commencement exercises, Friday night.

The Junior-Senior banquet will be held in the school dining room Wednesday night.

Thursday night's program will be given by members of the eighth grade who have successfully completed their work. The program will consist of numbers by the class as well as a short talk by some visiting speaker.

Friday night the Senior Class commencement will be held. The commencement address will be delivered by Clifford C. Crump, head of the department of astronomy, Ohio Wesleyan University. Members of the class will give the program, which will be as follows:

Innovation, Rev. F. M. Koepplin, salutatory, Loren Cope, class president; vocal solo, "A Perfect Day," Margaret Boyd; class poem, Lucia Wanta; musical reading, "Aurora," Ruth Crumer; class prayer, Mildred Green; salutatory, Mary Maute; instrumental solo, "I Love A Little Cottage," Howard Klumfeiter; class address, Clifford C. Crump; class song, entire class; presentation of diplomas, R. A. Moore, benediction, Rev. F. M. Koepplin.

Other members of the senior class are Kenneth Monk, Henry Miller, Hazel Lichtenberger and Otto Kirkpatrick.

Community Day

Friday, will be Community Day in Pleasant Township. The entire day will be given over to reunion and good fellowship. Beginning at 9 o'clock there will be field sports for boys and girls from all the grades. This will be followed by a picnic dinner. After dinner there will be a program with all grades except seniors participating. The day will be concluded with a doubleheader ball game. The high school boys will have their annual clash with the men of the community and the high school girls will cross bats with the alumni.

During the entire day the parents and others interested will be privileged to inspect the work of the children in all departments of the school. This work will be on display as a local school exhibit, each room having a display.

Thursday will be "clean-up day."

ADDRESS GIVEN TO SCHOOL GRADUATES

Heidelberg Professor Speaker at Pleasant Township Baccalaureate Service

Pleasant Township baccalaureate services were held Sunday night in the school auditorium with about 200 in attendance. Dr. H. L. Beam, professor of English Bible, Heidelberg University, preached the sermon.

Dr. Beam said in part: "Man and his immediate universe are very insignificant in comparison with the vast spaces and heavenly bodies beyond our system, yet any change in our immediate universe affects by distortion or aids the other and even greater bodies. Man, after all, is only relatively insignificant because of the countless atoms and electrons which are so very small. Yet even one of these tiny units spoils the equation and the mixture, if omitted. No man, who was made in the image of God, must be of great importance. No man can fail without disaster to others. God has a task for each one of us and to fail to perform it, may mean that it will never be done."

Music for the occasion was furnished by the High School chorus under the leadership of Miss Mary Helen Eiling, social science instructor in the Pleasant Township Schools. The chorus sang, "Holy, Holy, Holy" and "Recessional." Davis Meyer sang "In the House of the Lord." Miss Mary Eiling, both Cooper played a march while the senior class members took their places. She also played accompaniments for chorus and solo numbers.

Which Will Marion Choose?

Throbbing machinery — busy streets — the roar of traffic — happy people — money in the bank — prosperity.

Dying town — very little business — an automobile here and there — people just living — industrial stagnation.

There, in a few words, you have the pictures of two towns. One abuzz with activity — the other dying the death of narrow-mindedness and selfishness.

The future of Marion rests with Marion. Your town can either be one of prosperity or become industrially sterile.

Marion must be able to assure industries of an adequate gas supply. In giving this assurance to business Marion is also assuring its future growth.

Gas is vital to Marion. Every day that Marion puts off the settlement of the gas rate means loss of business, money and prosperity. Your Gas Company is eager to help Marion grow. All it asks is that you recognize the fact that

REV. R. C. WINDHORST DELIVERS SERMON

Former Pastor Addresses
Audience at Baccalaureate
Services for Seniors

Prophet, May 21—A fine audience was in attendance at the baccalaureate service for the class of 1934 of the Marion High School held Sunday night. The seniors, juniors, faculty, board of education and members of the churches of the city and vicinity were present. Rev. R. C. Windhorst, of Indianapolis, former pastor of the Reformed Church, preached a fine sermon, using as his text, "But this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." Rev. O. E. Smith of the Methodist Church pronounced the benediction.

TOURING ADVICE

Local Motorists Urged To Tune Up
Car Before Starting Out

Before starting on that motor trip this summer, see to it that your car is in condition to make the trip a pleasure instead of a worry, in the advice being offered by the Marion Auto Club.

"The close relationship between the pleasure of the tour and the condition of the car should suggest to every prospective tourist the wisdom of seeing that the car is performing at its best before the trip begins," says Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the club.

CLINIC ACTIVITIES LISTED IN REPORTS

Included in April Statements of Red Cross Nurse and Secretary

Marion's free clinic, conducted at City Hospital by local civic organizations, figured largely in the reports of Mrs. Lois Maugans, Red Cross nurse, and Miss Mina Doughty, Red Cross secretary, for April.

Mrs. Maugans reported removing 15 patients to the clinic and making 18 home visits in the interests of that institution. She also assisted at the clinic on four half-days. Miss Doughty also made nine calls in the interest of the clinic.

Another interesting feature of Mrs. Maugans' report was the large number of nursing visits, 67 in all. Twelve medical cases and three surgical cases were reported by Mrs. Maugans. Six patients were removed to doctors' offices and three to City Hospital, two for tonsil and adenoid operations, and one for an eye operation.

Two orthopedic cases were taken to Columbus and examined in the Child, Women's Hospital in that city and two children were taken to the School for Crippled Children for physiotherapy. Thirty-two children were examined for pediculosis and two visits to schools were made. One orthopedic case was made a ward of the state. Five investigations, one instructive visit and 15 miscellaneous items figured in the report.

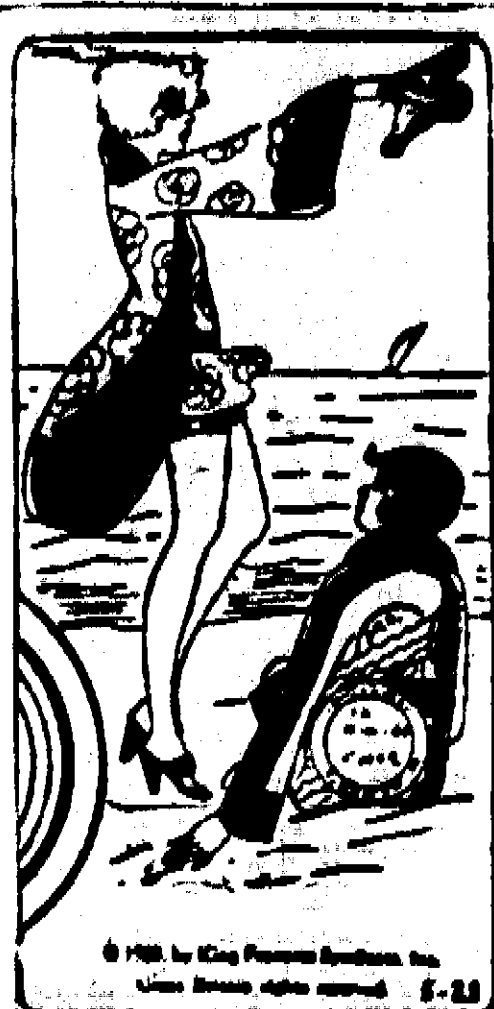

7 PROPERTIES SOLD

Auctioned Off by Sheriff in Connection
With Partition Suit

Seven pieces of property in Marion sold at sheriff's sale Saturday afternoon in the partition suit brought in Common Pleas Court by Ernest Craven against Arthur A. Craven.

The properties were bid in at $2,072, which was two-thirds of the appraisal. The defendant in the suit bid in the entire group. The auctioneer was Austin Reed, Charles H. Conley was attorney for the plaintiff.

Ritzy Rosey

Ritzy Rosey and Panslope yield to the lure of the beach and the dancing waves; not only because of their charms, but also because of the opportunity afforded to display the new beach costumes. Panslope is wearing a novel beach robe upon which are large reproductions of postmarks of fashionable resorts. The handkerchief which Ritzy is waving is made of rubber, and matches the remainder of her ensemble. Tucked under her belt, it also keeps dry when she is in the water.

Daily Proverb—"Who don't keep faith with God, won't keep it with man."

Accidents, sickness and death are estimated to cost the United States annually $15,000,000,000. And we still speak of the conflict waged over in Europe as the "Great" war!

After thinking the thing over deliberately, we are unable to recall a presidential campaign in which the also-rans developed so speedily.

Senator Jim Reed, of Missouri, was outrun in the Oregon primary by Senator Walsh, of Montana, who isn't running. That man Reed's imagination is simply amazing.

While lecturing to some of its employees up in Chicago, the statisticians of a prominent Ohio life insurance company dropped dead. He certainly established his case.

With Al. Smith as the head of its ticket and former Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Aurora borealis whiskers fame, as its tail, as has been suggested, Democracy could hardly be accused of lacking in appreciation of the picturesque.

Senator Hefflin's latest eruption was predicated on the fact that the drapes of the president's room in the capitol are red. We assume that the senator has a leaning toward yellow.

Russian colonists upon Wrangel Island are starving owing to the fact that the food ship upon which they depend for provisions is held up by bolshevik red tape. "Liberty and equality!"

A Washington despatch says the senate has moved golf from being "lazed out of existence" as a "consolation to the old," which is as it should be. We youngsters have always been willing to concede that golf had its place as a game for the aged.

After thinking the thing over a bit, Prince Saud Chahbir, of Turkey, has decided that he didn't divorce his wife, Bidi Wirt Spreckels. If Saud keeps on, people are liable to get the notion that he's notionate.

Miss Murray has been sued by a movie director for $100,000 damages done by her reputation by her declaration that she did not like a story they were to screen. It's astonishing how quickly people in the movie business can become temperamental in connection with such reputations as they may have.

Death of "Big Bill" Haywood.

If there is our land who champion violence were equipped with sufficient mentalities to draw a lesson from the fate of William "Big Bill" Haywood, his death in Moscow last week would have a tendency to cause them to recognize the folly of their cause.

The code of Haywood was: "Any and all tactics that will get the results. The tactics are determined solely by the power of the organization to make good in their use. The question of 'right' and 'wrong' does not concern us." This was what he preached, and this was the course he followed, and it caused him to be denounced by organized labor and expelled from its ranks and later to be ostracized by the Socialist party, of which he was a member, and driven out of it. It was this same Haywood, shunned by organized labor and the Socialist party, who organized the terrorist body known as the Industrial Workers of the World, the crimes of which against persons and property almost exceed belief. As a matter of fact, Haywood was acquitted of complicity in the murder of Governor Frank Steunenberg, of Idaho, because the farmers and plantations, who made up the jury before which he was tried, simply could not believe that any one man could have plotted such a series of heinous crimes as were charged against him.

When America entered the World war, Haywood's activities against law, order and good government, which had been in abeyance for some time, became extremely vicious and he was sentenced by Federal Judge Keneas Mountain Landis, the present supreme authority in organized ball, to ten years in the penitentiary and fined $10,000, as a war obstructionist. He was released on a bond of $15,000, and when, in 1921, the supreme court ordered him and eighty other members of the I. W. W. to be returned to prison, Haywood betrayed his bondsmen and fled to Russia, where he remained and died in exile.

In Russia, Haywood proved a failure at all he undertook, and very probably it was only because of the reputation for violence he had gained over here that he was tolerated by the bolsheviks after his repeated failures in executive positions and given the use of two rooms in which he lived the last four years of his life.

Driven from the ranks of organized labor for his viciousness and violence, discarded by his party, denounced for the betrayal of his friends, for eight years an exile, the last four of which were lived in misery, the closing years of Haywood's life are not such as to allure any to "any and all tactics that will get results" regardless of the question of "right" or "wrong."

See Ohio First.

This is the opening day of the week set apart by proclamation of Governor Donahay for the spreading of information concerning the beauty spots of our commonwealth, its points of historical or archaeological interest, its memorials, its educational institutions, its industrial and commercial interests, its natural resources and varied advantages of which the people of the state generally should know.

To this end many forms of publicity will be employed. From Columbus comes word that Director of Education Clifton has requested 42,000 teachers in the public schools of the state to stage "Know Ohio" programs in their school rooms this week. Seven hundred motion-picture houses have agreed to do their part toward making the intensive campaign of the Know Ohio League a success, and fifteen radio stations will conduct ten-minute programs each evening. The newspapers, it goes without the saying, will cooperate with publicity just as they have been doing for the past week or ten days, utilizing both their editorial and news columns to that end.

All of us know that Ohio is one of the great states of the union, but it is hardly probable that even a fair proportion of us know how really great our state is. The most of us know that it is a great industrial state, but comparatively few of us realized that it is third in industrial production, with annual products worth $5,330,000,000. All of us appreciate the fact that our agricultural interests are vast, but how many imagined that there are in Ohio 256,685 farms averaging ninety-one acres in size? In this day of the automobile when so large a part of our population is a wheel, the most of us probably know that we had many great state institutions, but it is hardly probable that many of us realized we have twenty-five state institutions the worth of which is placed at $32,389,978.

We may have been exceptionally deficient in our knowledge of the state, but it was not until the preliminary announcements of this week's campaign were published that we knew that Ohio possessed 560 catalogued beauty spots and points of historical and archaeological interest, among them being some of the most important shrines and monuments in the land.

The purpose of "Know Ohio" week goes beyond making these points of interest known to the people of our state. The knowledge that such points exist, it is figured, will lead to a desire to visit them and get a knowledge of them at first hand—a personal knowledge, which in value exceeds all others. With 85,000 miles of highway, 35,000 miles of which are improved, and with automobiles in most of our homes, it will be indeed surprising if this week's campaign does not lead thousands upon thousands to acquire for themselves a knowledge of their home state such as they never had before; that they will not be content only to know of Ohio from others, but will want to see Ohio and make good the campaign slogan: "See Ohio First."

Senator Hale, of Maine, says the pacifists aim a death-blow at the navy. Judging by the way they have intimidated the members of congress with rubber spines from passing the cruiser bill, it looks as though they have already given the navy a resounding whack.

The United States senate has voted to give the public access to all income tax returns. Will not that be cruel and unusual punishment to a lot of people who have been lamenting in public the awful burden the income tax law has caused them to bear?

We glean from Chicago papers that Mayor William Hale Thompson's plan to build up the spirit of "America First" in the schools of the Windy City is to close fifteen public schools each school day to permit the pupils to visit an amusement park, where they can spend their pennies viewing obscenities offered by peep-shows.

A despatch from St. Cloud, Minnesota, states that a man up there was fined five dollars and costs for driving a horse while drunk. Of course, it is meant that the man was drunk, the four-legged animal being blessed with horse sense.

Pointing out that federal appropriations for road construction of various kinds aggregated $797,255,000 from 1917 to 1923, President Coolidge took his veto ax and lopped off a $10,500,000 project to construct roads "through unreserved public lands and non-taxable Indian lands." That Coolidge ax is destined to prove the most valuable of all history.

STORM CLOUDS IN THE EAST.

Small-Pox Terrors Not Dead.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Health officials throughout North America are begging people to be vaccinated. It is good advice. I am not saying this merely because it is easy to tell people what they should do. I am advising you to do what I have done for myself very few years. Of course, it isn't pleasant to be vaccinated and to be truthful about it, one can feel quite miserable for several days.

Let us analyze my own experience. I have been vaccinated a dozen times, I suppose. Previous to my latest vaccination, I had it done on my return several years ago from Glasgow, Scotland, where they were having a rather serious epidemic of small-pox.

But for at least twenty years no vaccination of mine "took" until the last time. This may mean that I had "run out" of the effects of previous vaccinations. It may mean that previously the vaccine was too weak, not well applied, or that some cleaning agent neutralized it. In any event, had I been content to accept the non-taking in the past as an evidence of present immunity, I might have been one of the future victims of small-pox. I am extremely confident that if a vigorous "take" is a proof of its need, I was in desperate need of vaccination.

I want you to see that if you have not had a successful vaccination for ten years and that all efforts failed, it does not prove necessarily that you are safe from small-pox. My advice is to try again. If it does not result in a reaction, no harm is done anyhow. It may take this year.

Small-pox is a loathsome disease. It is not less so merely because it is less common. It is less common because vaccination is more general, but you would be unhappy indeed to take the disease. You would hate to be the victim of an attack just because you "took a chance" or because you disregarded the advice of the medical world.

There are a few doctors, relatively very few indeed, who are opposed to vaccination. There is plenty of propaganda against this procedure. You must judge for yourself.

In reaching a conclusion, do not disregard the rights of the public. You must not think alone of what vaccination means to you, but must consider as well the evil effects of small-pox upon your family, neighbors, and those with whom you are in daily contact. Should you take the disease even in a mild form, you might pass it on to others who would acquire permanent scars and possibly permanent impairment of health.

Vaccination is disagreeable, but it is not dangerous. Old-time vaccination had its hazards and had results followed in many instances. That is the case today. You can be vaccinated in full confidence that all will go well with you. Don't neglect to do it.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

L. S. S. Q.—In what way does a duodenal ulcer affect one? Would it bring on convulsions? Is an operation necessary?

A.—Distress after eating, pain and gases in the stomach and intestines are among the outstanding symptoms. No. This depends on the extent and seriousness of the trouble. The patient should be under the care of a doctor and follow the latter's instructions.

L. E. Q.—How can protruding ears be corrected?

A.—Consult a plastic surgeon for his advice after a personal examination.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Dinner Stories.

"Sir," wrote the indignant mother to the schoolmaster, "you mustn't whack by Leslie. He can't undo it. We never hit him at home except in self-defense."

Pincus hadn't seen Glasberg for five years, but deliberately passed him on the street. He rushed to his office and yelled to his stenographer: "Mollie, look in the files under 'G' and see why I'm sore at Glasberg."

"I think those French are awful, why, I've never been to anything like the Folies Bergere, or the Moulin Rouge in this country!" "Where the Comedie Francaise and the opera vile, too, grandmother!" "Oh, we didn't go to those."

They Naturally Hate Their Sufferings.
Somehow the prevalent theory in the senate that every aspirant for the presidency is dishonest in his campaign methods and expenditures until he proves himself innocent, suggests the possible existence of certain ethical standards among the inquisitions themselves.—Detroit Free Press.

There is that scattereth, and yet increaseth; and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty.—Proverbs 11:24.
Prayer—Help me, Lord, to scatter seeds of goodness all along my way.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

No matter how charming or delightful a man may be, no matter what his disposition and intentions, if you are forced to call him unreliable or irresponsible you have pronounced him a total loss. A man may have all sorts of bad habits and still amount to a great deal. With bad habits he may still be a power in the community. But if the word gets about that he is "a nice fellow but irresponsible, unreliable," he is wrecked as far as advancement is concerned.

Bankers expect collateral if they are going to loan you money. They are apparently rather cold men who stick to hard-and-fast rules about the amount of security they must have. But the most thoughtful ones always have in mind another kind of collateral which sometimes weighs with them even more than the stocks and bonds which you put up. The fundamental collateral in reputation in the town. If you have lived in such a way that your character is known to be what it ought to be you may be happily surprised some day by finding a banker willing to lend you more money than you ever suspected he would. Try it some day—if you deserve to try it.

Chicago will soon have a new museum and it's the right sort. It'll be the Roosevelt Industrial museum. It will set forth the progress of mankind in a mechanical and scientific way. The science of communication will be displayed in all its stages from the time when savages lighted fires on the mountain top down the latest development of television. Best of all, this will be a museum of motion. There will be no dull spots and dull moments. No hands-off signs. Visitors can pull the levers, turn the cranks, press the buttons, and run the machinery. This is real teaching.

Dr. Alfred Adler, of Vienna, does a great deal of thinking about educational matters. It is the business of school life, he says, so to adjust children that in their later contacts with life they will be able to fit into their social environment without difficulty. The great teachers are the ones who have imagination enough to see and understand the great difficulties of adjustment which the growing young man and the growing young woman are bound to encounter. Above almost everything else, poise and judgment should be taught.

Editorial Opinion.

MR. HUGHES PUTS IT STRAIGHT.

That the attitude of the United States toward Nicaragua is completely in accord with Latin-American policy has just been made clear by Charles Evans Hughes in elucidation of the Central American problem.

Mr. Hughes says the United States is now active in Nicaragua as a supporter in principle of the treaty entered into by five Latin-American nations in 1907. Nicaragua, Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras and Costa Rica then agreed among themselves not to recognize a government that came into power in any of these countries through a coup d'etat or a revolution, unless the freely elected representatives of the people themselves had reorganized the government. This treaty was reaffirmed in 1923, in a Washington conference.

The United States was not a party to the treaty. But it was clear from its inception that it might not be effective, if it lacked the constructive support of the Washington government, and this support has been given.

The question as to the recognition of de facto governments, says Mr. Hughes, must be viewed in this aspect with respect to Central America. Then he goes on:

"The United States has had the option either of encouraging thus the efforts of the Central American republics to promote constitutional government or of discouraging or nullifying it."

Here, then, was the principle behind our refusal to recognize the Chamorrist government in Nicaragua, set up through a coup d'etat. It was in support of the treaty to which Nicaragua itself was a party. To disregard that treaty, said Mr. Hughes, or to have dissuaded the free governments from adopting it, "would frankly place the United States on the side of bloodshed and disorder, as opposed to an effort, even if difficult and at times unsuccessful, to promote stability."

Thus the United States' policy is one of non-interference and of interpolation, and we are in Nicaragua in the light of the free-representation treaty and the life and property of our nationals. Still further, we are there in keeping with our agreement to supervise the elections—a condition which, Mr. Hughes says, makes the other reasons academic.

"We have undertaken that duty," says this high-American authority on our policies in the Western hemisphere, "and under that agreement we must discharge it. We can not recede from that obligation without incurring. That is the present Nicaraguan situation."—Minneapolis Journal.

Heat and the Human Engine.

BY GARRETT P. HERVISE.

"Will you kindly write an explanation of latent heat?" asks a Grand Rapids doctor, who goes on to say: "In studying the heat of the body I find that it is constant at ninety-eight degrees, yet if evaporation from the body stops the temperature immediately rises. Again, the outside temperature at which the body is most comfortable is about eighty degrees, therefore I calculate there is continually about twenty degrees above normal that is latent in the body, or the real temperature is 120 degrees instead of ninety-eight degrees."

"Latent heat" is sometimes said to be a misleading term, but to name it "invisible work," which perhaps more truly describes it, would hardly be an improvement for popular use. It is the heat energy required to change the state of a body from solid to liquid or from liquid to vapor. In producing the change the change of state, and in every case the amount of heat used up in supplying this work disappears as temperature, and continues to exist only as the energy of separation keeping the molecules of the substance in their more expanded state.

The reason why heat disappears in the process of melting a solid, or of vaporizing a liquid, is that in each case the molecules of the substance are driven farther apart, and this can not occur without the performance of work. The energy for this work is furnished by the heat applied to produce the increased vibration that causes the change of state. Different substances require different amounts of work for the change of state, and in every case the amount of heat used up in supplying this work disappears as temperature, and continues to exist only as the energy of separation keeping the molecules of the substance in their more expanded state.

Thus there is a "latent heat of fusion," the amount of which differs for different solids, and there is also a "latent heat of vaporization," which differs for different liquids.

The latent heat of ice, i. e., the quantity of heat energy required to change ice to water, without altering the temperature, is found to be 145 thermal units, or eighty calories per pound. In experiments with this you will find that there is no alteration of temperature as long as the ice is not yet turned to water. The temperature of the ice at the beginning is thirty-two degrees Fahrenheit, and the water produced by the melting has the same temperature, because the heat applied is all used up in work to drive the molecules of ice from the solid to the liquid condition. More heat applied after that change has been completed will, of course, increase the temperature of the water.

Similarly the latent heat of steam is the quantity of heat energy required to change water into steam, and no change of temperature appears until after that change has been effected. At the critical point both water and steam are at 212 degrees Fahrenheit. But after the change of state the steam may be superheated by the application of more heat.

It would be rather confusing to speak of the latent heat of the human body, which is made up of substances in both the liquid and the solid state. The body is an engine, continually producing heat by a process of oxidation, and giving forth its surplus heat to its surroundings. Stopping evaporation from the skin prevents the normal escape of heat from the body and thus causes an accumulation of potential temperature surrounding the body, with solid air in direct contact with the skin opens too wide the avenues of escape for the bodily heat, and the temperature falls below the normal.

These changes do not affect the latent heat locked up in the bodily substances, but if a man freezes to death, the bodily liquids becoming changed to ice, then there is a disappearance of latent heat.—Copyright, 1927, International Feature Service, Inc.

Adolf Jensen—Composer.

BY COLETTE DWIGLANS.

While Adolf Jensen does not occupy the distinguished place of those who left their impression on the musical history of the world, yet his life and work entitle him to a high place in musical art.

Born in Konigsberg on January 12, 1847, he was almost entirely self-taught and it was not until his talents attracted the attention of L. Ehler and Fr. Marburg that he had any technical training whatsoever. Under these teachers he spent two years of the most diligent study and in 1856 he was teaching in Russia.

An ardent admirer of Robert Schumann, it was his idea to pursue his studies under this master, but death robbed him of what might have been the turning point of his career and might have developed him into one of the truly great.

In 1857, Jensen was appointed kapelmester at the Posen City theater, in 1858 went to Copenhagen where he studied for two years under Gade, returning to Konigsberg in 1860.

In 1866 he took the position of instructor of the piano at Tausig's school, continuing in this position until his health failed.

Jensen's genius was essentially that of a song-writer. His published works number sixty-two, all of which carry unmistakable stamp of genius. His compositions possess the quality of endurance, which is to say such, when it is taken into consideration the Jensen lived a lifetime when the modern German school was flourishing in its highest form.

Much credit is due Jensen for untiringly pursuing his chosen calling, for he had few of the opportunities granted him that seem to spring up for most of the great artists at the opportune moment of their career. He worked alone and unaided and had such opportunities been granted him, it is more than possible that he would have realized a future of wider fame.

Jensen's songs most nearly approach those of Schumann, without in any sense imitating them.

After retiring from Tausig's school, Jensen went to Baden Baden in search of his health and died there from consumption on January 23, 1878.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. C. MINTYRE.

New York, May 21—Dairy of a Model Peppa: Up and an amusing night letter to Jack Pickford relating some Hollywood gossip of Wilson Miner and cordial notes, too, from Francis Wilson, the actor, and Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., about something I had written him pleased them.

Nothing has such stimulating quality as a letter, yet I receive very little. I work while and to an office where I am not paid to write exclusively for a group of magazines to a year which will not be a heart-breaking appointment to the others.

In the evening with my wife to Joe Moore for dinner and inquired if a picture on the wall was not by Rembrandt, a wild guess, but was, and, thus emboldened, began to dabble on art, which I knew nothing about and became confused. So home to bed where I belonged.

A social lion of the season is an Indiana Buffalo chief Long Lance, who has been invited everywhere. His introduction to society came about in an amusing manner. A lawyer begged him for one of her smart dinners and surrounded up a distinguished crowd to meet him.

After they assembled she explained the must pardon any show of primitive manner on the part of the guest of honor who was to arrive shortly, and in view of the probabilities of an Indian of the reservation no "water" would be served.

The guests sat expectantly, supposing they would see a redskin in war paint all fussed up with weather, tribal emblems and perhaps wearing a cowboy hat with a white feather. Finally, a butler gravely announced "Chief Long Lance of the Black Feet."

And into the reception room came a gentleman in full evening dress and a monocle dangling at his white whisk. He was dressed as an arrow, with smoothly-brushed black hair, broad shoulders and waspish waist—a superb edition of the late Valentino.

It developed Chief Long Lance was graduated from three universities, speaks with an Oxonian accent and has graced road boards all over Europe. He is in addition a writer of repute, dances divinely, and is, of course, naturally, became a social wow.

The mother was an Australian lady and the father one of the richest men in Singapore—but a full-caste Hindu, and black as coal.

A gentleman—at least I suppose he is—has a valet—gave a dinner the other evening and after the guests had collected escorted them into a room where a laboratory chemist in white uniform was stationed among the bottles of liquor. The chemist gravely took a test of the supply and certified to the purity. Then drinks were served as though anybody cared whether they were poisonous or not.

He was one of those singers hitting high C at an afternoon tea and whose name you might be Paul. In an effort to be sociable I inquired if he had attended a concert. This day was Thursday. Between fifty and sixty were killed and injured in a crossing collision six miles from Albany.

Senator Platt, of New York, was discharged from the court finding for him in the divorce suit of Mae Woods, who claimed to be his common-law wife, and the latter was held in prison default of a bond of $5,000, on a perjury charge. The woman was classed as an adventuress.

The degree staff of Mansfield Council, No. 94, R. and S. M., conferred the super-exalted degree on a class of chosen candidates at an annual meeting of Marion Council, No. 2, R. and S. M.

The Star told of a fourteen-inning game two game played the day before by Marion and Newark, Wilmet pitching for the home team and J. Locke for Newark. Marion won ten hits and but one error, while Newark got nine bingles and made three errors.

Benjamin B. Cottrell and Clio E. Wagoner, the Star said, were graduated last evening before from the Morral High school. Attaining a speed never before reached by a transatlantic liner, the Lusitania made the run from Daut's Rock to Sandy Hook, over the long course, in four days, twenty hours and nineteen minutes.

Social Activities

A DELIGHTFUL social affair of the week is the bridge tea at Hotel Hard in this afternoon complementing the wives of visiting knights in attendance at the annual state convention of the Knights of Columbus. About 50 guests from out of the city are being entertained, with tree decks of the various Catholic Women's organizations presiding as hostesses. Mrs. J. A. Ase, who is presiding as chairman, is being assisted by Mrs. C. C. Brown, Mrs. Albert Reidenbaugh, Mrs. J. B. Hoover and Mrs. Robert Ramoth. The visiting women were entertained with an automobile ride about the city yesterday afternoon. The convention will close with the ball tonight at Crystal Lake park, arranged for all knights and their families.

THE approaching marriage of Miss Nell Mae Sampson to Charles M. Dunn, of Kermitt, W. Va., was made at a charmingly appointed dinner Saturday night given by Miss Sampson's mother, Mrs. Frederick C. Sampson, 8, Prospect-st. A riot note of green and pink, the color Miss Sampson has chosen for her wedding, was arranged in the decorations for the small tables at which covers were placed for 24. Pink roses, tied with green tulle, the guest favors, held the announcement of the wedding which will take place June 27. Baskets of spring flowers, in which shades of pink and green predominated, arranged a lovely decorative note throughout the rooms. Assisting Mrs. Sampson were Misses Isabel Eys, Alice Burke and Alice Jo Sampson. Tables were later arranged for cards, the awards going to Miss Valeria Todd and Miss Margaret Harlow. Miss Betty Tobin, of Lima, was an out-of-town guest.

Joint Birthdays
Celebrated Sunday
Friends and relatives surprised Mrs. Clarence Eberhart, Hines, and Albert Van Atta Newman's bridge, at the latter's home Sunday. The occasion was the joint celebration of the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Eberhart and Mr. Van Atta, brother and sister, whose birthdays are on the same date. At noon a picnic dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eberhart, of Victoria, Mr. and Mrs. William Van Atta and Miss Gayle Chandler, of Ada, Mr. and Mrs. John Epley and children, Roy and Mae, of Ada, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Roeder, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Cook and family, Mr. and Mrs. Hild Green and daughter, Vivian, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Eberhart, of Marion, were present. The celebrants received several gifts.

Meditations
or a Married Woman

—BY HELEN HOWLAND—

Woman, the flesh-and-blood
My laughter, consider the life of a man who possesses a good wife,
for all his days are smoother than the curving of a new car upon the state highway and calmer than a May afternoon.

Behold, he arises in the morning
and at his right hand is his razor and at his left are his slippers and his bath towels.

He droppeth his pajamas upon the floor and flingeth his soiled garments
to the winds. His shoes are as birds that fly to him from the afternoon
concerns of the house and his collar-
buttons as a homing pigeon which cometh at his whistle.

Whensoever he descendeth his breakfast is waiting, his newspaper lieeth at his elbow, his grapefruit hath been prepared and sugared, his coffee is served and his coffee is poured and sipped.

His wife assembleth him for departure, she finisheth his shirt. And his gloves. And his umbrella. And his brief case. And his cigarettes.

And when she hath sped him upon his way, with much bustling and hurrying and putting his goods into the trunk and consulting with the cook,
and directeth the gardener, and laugheth
with the butcher, and directeth the plumber
and joiner, all the tradesmen.

She gathereth up his garments and his cigar stubs and his ashes. Yes, two hours doth she spend in restoring order
out of the house, which he hath wrought. The bureau drawers which he hath torn to pieces are put straight,
and his hose rescued from the fire-
place and his cravats from the talcum.

His shoes are found and mended and re-mended one to the other. And, lo, when his laundry is counted and his buttons restored and the rent in his garments are mended, the house which resembled a battlefield hath become as peaceful as a Sunday morning in Gopher Prairie.

Then doth she seek her mirror and invasion away the worry wrinkles and anoint herself with spikenard and myrrh
and beauty creams and powder de ris
for his coming.

She assumeth a gay smile of welcome and lighteth all the lamps and seeth to it that the table is prepared and the roast upon the way and the salad dressed and waiting, and the vinous hot and the ice cream cold.

And behold, when her lord returneth
all is beauty and comfort and sweetness and light!

Then doth he greet her with a kiss
and a sigh of weariness, saying: "Lord, lord, but I am tired! For I have had a hard and cautious day, with only an hour off for lunch and two hours upon the links! But, WHAT, my beloved,
doest thou do with thy time all day?
Yes, HOW doest thou put in all the hours, with naught to do but amuse thyself?"

But a wise wife holdeth her peace
and permiteth him to DREAM ON.

For the way of a woman with a house is a mystery which no man can comprehend. SELAH!

HOUSE
CLEANING
NOW!

THOSE DRAPES, Mary, are getting dull and colorless—we'll have them dry-cleaned at once.
And this rug and the one in the dining room
should be cleaned also. We'll start with these rooms downstairs first—let's have all the curtains—the lace and the silk ones—cleaned.
And you might ask them to send also for these upholstered chairs.

"If we get this work picked up early,
it should be back home all the sooner and we can have the rooms all cleaned up in the meantime."
